Weekly Health Tip

Recreational Water Illnesses (RWIs) are the various illnesses caused by germs that can contaminate water in pools, lakes, and the ocean. Diarrhea is the most common recreational water illness. Tiny amounts of fecal matter are rinsed off all swimmers' bottoms as they swim through the water. Swallowing even a small amount of water that has been contaminated with germs can make you sick. That is why it is so important to stay out of the pool if you are sick with diarrhea, shower before swimming, and avoid swallowing pool water.
